I am for the removal of Element 1 testing (CW), however I am against the "giving" of any further privilages without further written test, such as the General or Extra element. There is alot of information in those elements that was not required learning for the "No-Code" test, that I personal feel would be needed to opperate a station on HF.